The Beginning of Scouting

Scouting's history goes back to the turn of the 20th century to a British Army officer, Robert Stephenson Smyth Baden-Powell. While stationed in India, he discovered that his men did not know basic first aid or the elementary means of survival in the outdoors. Baden-Powell realized he needed to teach his men many frontier skills, so he wrote a small handbook called Aids to Scouting, which emphasized resourcefulness, adaptability, and the qualities of leadership that frontier conditions demanded.

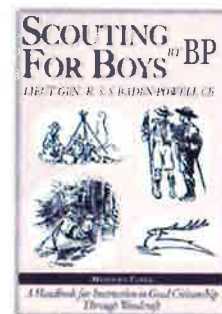

After returning from the Boer War, Baden-Powell was amazed to find that his little handbook had caught the interest of English boys. They were using it to play the game of scouting. In August 1907, he gathered about 20 boys and took them to Brownsea Island in a sheltered bay off England's southern coast. They set up a makeshift camp that would be their home for the next 12 days. They divided into patrols and played games, went on hikes, and learned stalking and pioneering. They learned to cook outdoors without utensils. Scouting had begun.

American Origins

An American businessman first had to get lost in the fog in England. Chicago businessman and publisher William D. Boyce was groping his way through the fog when a boy appeared and offered to take him to his destination. When they arrived, Boyce tried to tip the boy, but the boy refused and courteously explained that he was a Scout and could not accept payment for a Good Turn.

Intrigued, the publisher questioned the boy and learned more about Scouting. He visited with Baden-Powell as well and became captured by the idea of Scouting. When Boyce boarded the transatlantic steamer for home, he had a suitcase filled with information and ideas. And so, on February 8, 1910, Boyce incorporated the Boy Scouts of America.

The "unknown Scout" who helped him in the fog was never heard from again, but he will never be forgotten. His Good Turn is what brought Scouting to our country.

Fun is taking flight at the "Up in the Air" Cub-o-Ree!

April 21-22, 2018

Cub-o-Ree is an exciting Cub Scout overnight camping opportunity at the Pine Tree Education and Environmental Center in Tabernacle. This is a rain or shine event and you can go for the day or camp overnight in your own tent.

Saturday lunch and dinner are provided (or you can cook for yourself). BB's, Archery and STEM activities are part of the many exciting things planned. The Cub-o-Ree is sponsored by the Quakesen District (not Pack 439) and Cub Scouts from all Packs are welcome to attend. Space is limited so register early if interested.

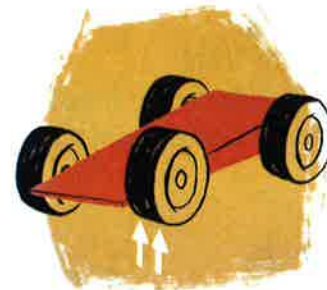

For more information, please contact Janet Boris (Janet.Boris@Scouting.org) or visit <http://dk.gardenstatescouting.org/registration/calendardetail.aspx?ActivityKey=2295371&OrgKey=551>

A Scout is Reverent: Scout Sunday Observance February 4, 2018

The Boy Scouts of America designates the Sunday that falls before February 8 (Scouting Anniversary Day) as Scout Sunday, which is the primary date to recognize the contributions of young people and adults to Scouting.

More information regarding Scout Sunday can be found at <http://www.nccs-bsa.org/pdf/ScoutSunday.pdf>

Scouts participating in religious ceremonies in their Class A Uniform on Scout Sunday will receive an achievement award. Please notify your den leader to receive credit.

have you completed your cyber CHIP requirements yet ?

Today's youth are spending more time than ever using digital media for education, research, socializing, and fun. To help families and volunteers keep youth safe while online, the Boy Scouts of America introduced the Cyber Chip.

In developing this exciting new tool, the BSA teamed up with content expert NetSmartz®, part of the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children® and training expert for many law enforcement agencies. NetSmartz® has created a Scouting portal showcasing Cyber Chip resources, including grade-specific videos, for each level. Topics include cyberbullying, cell phone use, texting, blogging, gaming, and identity theft.

Go to <http://www.scouting.org/cyberchip.aspx> to get started and complete your Scout rank requirement.

ALL TIGERS, WOLVES, BEARS AND WEBELOS ARE REQUIRED TO COMPLETE THEIR CYBER CHIP REQUIREMENTS EACH YEAR TO ADVANCE TO THE NEXT RANK.
